Stop a Minute!

Try and figure out the number of times you have wondered why some one didn't invent some sort of thing that would make telephoning at least convenient if not comfortable.

If you're at the office you sit down with the transmitter on the desk before you, then—Hello! If you're at home you stand with the transmitter in one hand, the receiver in the other, first on one foot then on the other, 'till your patience is about gone and seconds seem minutes, and if you have to take a message down, well, it's all over.

LOOK AT THIS PICTURE.

Isn't it just about what you want? Always out of the way in a 16 inch space, always ready with everything needful AND ONE HAND FREE. Can you be without one another single day?

CALL US UP AT 806.
Will send you one on trial, any finish.

CASTRO COMPLIES WITH LAWS OF THE COUNTRY.

Taken to Ellis Island Pending Decision of Entrance.

Ex-President of Venezuela Comes to See Great Nation of Great Men.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Cipriano Castro, ex-president of Venezuela, seeking entrance to this country after a long residence abroad, was taken off steamer La Touraine at Quarantine today and removed to Ellis Island, pending a decision whether he will be allowed to enter the United States.

CIPRIANO CASTRO.

Castro is traveling under the name of Ellis, but was easily identified by the officials. They were accompanied by an interpreter and on boarding the La Touraine held a conference with the captain. He directed them to Castro's stateroom, where they explained that they had orders from the government to take him to Ellis Island. "If those are the laws of your country, I must comply," was Castro's only comment.

His baggage was hastily gathered and he was taken on board government steamer Immigrant, which started immediately for Ellis Island. Castro's skin was sallow, but he appeared in good health.

Castro's detention originated with the State Department at Washington, and the order for holding him at Quarantine was received by Commissioner Williams of the bureau of immigration Saturday from Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor. This order instructed Commissioner Williams to examine Castro as to his right to enter the country under the immigration law, and states that Castro must not be admitted without reference to the department heads at Washington.

A special board of inquiry will be convened at Ellis Island this afternoon to deal with his case. First Castro will be examined as to his physical condition. He has been suffering for some time from infectious disease. It is reported, and this alone might be sufficient ground to warrant his deportation.

Whatever the outcome of the hearing, it was regarded as certain that Castro will be held here till the government can obtain documentary evidence of charges made against him in Venezuela. It was understood that Castro would be allowed to make the usual formal appeal for a re-hearing, in case the decisions today were against him. This would delay proceedings for a week, sufficient time it is believed to enable the government to obtain the documents from Venezuela. As the La Touraine was nearing land, Castro, in wireless messages, declared that he was coming to the United States simply for a visit and travel. One of the messages read in part as follows: "I am simply going as a traveler for a short sojourn, with the idea of seeing for myself the great nation of Washington, of Lincoln and of Jefferson."

Another message read: "My coming proves that I am neither a revolutionist nor a sick man. Each of these terms excludes the other. Truth cannot be distorted. That you should insult me simply because I visit you is inconceivable."

The deposed ruler is accompanied by his valet, who went with him to Ellis Island. At the detention station Commissioner William's secretary said Castro would not be closely confined.

TO WELCOME 1913.

Songs to be Sung at Four Public Squares on Broadway.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Fifty-nine minutes of songs at four of the public squares along Broadway is the program finally agreed upon by the citizens' committee, formed by Jacob A. Riis, to celebrate the passing of the old year tonight. Choruses will be stationed at City Hall park, Union square, Madison square and Herald square, each to sing "The battle hymn of the republic," "O, God our help in ages past," "Nearer my God to thee" and "America," as well as some newer songs. Singing will begin at 11 o'clock and continue until 11:59 when, according to the committee's announcement, there is to be a full minute of silence on Broadway. It has been arranged that all the chimnes of the city will be played at midnight to break the minute's silence and to welcome 1913.

LABOR UNION OFFICIALS OFF FOR LEAVENWORTH.

Tell Their Wives to Wait Patiently and Be of Good Cheer.

Petition for Writ of Error Taken Under Advisement.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 31.—A special train carrying the 33 condemned labor union officials to Leavenworth, Kas., left here at 12:10 today over the Pennsylvania railroad.

The prisoners left the county jail at 12 o'clock sharp. Just before they emerged they joined in loud cheering Ed Lewis of San Francisco and J. B. McGlory, who are the only officials of the International union out of jail, were present to see the train off. As the prisoners left jail, McGlory and Lewis tried to shake hands with Frank M. Ryan, president of the union, but were prevented by the guards.

Strung along the sidewalk were wives and friends of the convicted men. The husbands lifted their hats to their wives and told them to be of good cheer, and to wait patiently the expiration of their terms. The women were heart-broken and cried uninterruptedly.

As the line of prisoners passed along the wall of the county jail prisoners broke out in shouts of farewell which could be heard on the sidewalk. The crowds that watched the procession were quiet. Those who had friends among the convicted men greeted them and exchanged words of comfort.

As soon as the party entered the train the signal for departure was given. There was no cheering as the train pulled out.

Judge Anderson took under advisement today a petition for a writ of error, filed by the attorneys for the 33 men under sentence for imprisonment, and set Thursday at 10 o'clock for a further hearing, when a prayer for a writ of supersedeas also will be filed.

The petition contained more than 100 typewritten pages and several times, as Judge Anderson read it, he remarked to Judge Chester H. Krum of St. Louis, spokesman for the counsel for the defense: "Judge, you'll have to get a better objection than that." "That is for the higher court to say," replied Mr. Krum.

United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller, in asking the court to delay action, declared that much of the petition was "junk" and that he wished to have time to go over it carefully and eliminate such parts as he said did not correspond with the records. He asked that the matter go over until after New Year's.

AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Quentin Jones's Yacht Sinks at Miami, Fla., While on a Fishing Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Quentin Jones, well known summer residents of Newport, had a rather exciting experience in the waters of Biscayne bay at Miami, Fla., Monday, when Mr. Jones's auxiliary sloop yacht Scallop struck a submerged reef and began to sink. Early in the day Mr. and Mrs. Jones boarded the Scallop and started out on a fishing trip. While picking her way through the lower keys the Scallop suddenly struck with great force. After careening to a dangerous angle she righted herself and it was seen that she was making considerable water.

Mr. Jones's first care was for his wife. Hastily lowering a small boat, he helped her into it, and with the aid of the crew had her rowed ashore. All hands, with the exception of Mrs. Jones, then returned to the sinking yacht and tried to save her. The hole in her bow was so large, however, that she filled rapidly and an attempt was made to run her on the beach near Lawton Villa, but she sank before the beach could be reached. She now lies submerged; only the roof of the cabin and the rigging showing above water. She will be raised and put on the ways for repairs.

THE MERCURY ALMANAC FOR 1913.

The Newport Mercury Almanac for 1913, edited by Alvah H. Sanborn and printed by the Mercury Publishing Company, will be ready, Wednesday. This is its thirty-eighth year, and certainly its best year. The calendar section has been especially prepared for Newport and contains the tide tables, with the yearly chronology underneath. There are some handsome Newport pictures by Child, including one of the beach and one of the interior of the new St. Joseph's Church, both of which are new. There is also much useful information, including a list of members of the Representative Council and other local facts, making it a handy book.

OPEN NIGHT AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Wednesday evening will be observed at the Young Men's Christian Association as an open night for the public. A New Year's program has been arranged by Social Secretary Stockwell, which will begin with an exhibition in the gymnasium, lasting three quarters of an hour. After that the visitors will promenade around the building and there will be games in the various rooms. Women friends of the Association are expected to be present. The bowling alleys will be open for all who wish to try their skill, and in fact the building will be open to visitors all day. Refreshments will be served in the course of the evening.

DEATH OF GEORGE R. PARKER.

News has been received of the death in Long Island City, Sunday, of Mr. George R. Parker, a former resident of Newport. He was a son of Mrs. Joseph Tompkins, who 35 years ago lived on Catherine street, and a nephew of Mrs. Job Slocum. Mr. Parker married Miss Elizabeth King, daughter of Mr. Nathan King and a sister of Mr. William K. King of this city, Mrs. J. C. Hatzel of New York and the late Mrs. Joseph C. Coggeshall. The interment will be in the Tompkins plot in the Island cemetery.

OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

Bench Warrants Issued in the Westport Wreck Case.

Tracks on New Haven Line Reported as in a Dangerous Condition.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 31.—Bench warrants charging Henry J. Horn, vice president, Benjamin R. Pollock, general manager and Charles N. Woodward, superintendent of the Shore Line division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, respectively, with manslaughter in connection with the wreck in Westport October 3, last, in which several persons were killed, were issued by Judge W. S. Case of the superior court here today.

The warrants, sworn out by State's Attorney Stiles Judson of Fairfield county, charge the men named in them with having caused the death of "one Jane Doe" by "wilfully and feloniously choking, suffocating and burning her, in a railroad car at Westport, on the date mentioned."

It is further charged that the accident was due to the excessive speed at which the train was being run; that Messrs. Horn, Pollock and Woodward, as officers of the railroad, charged with keeping the tracks and other equipment in proper condition to insure the safety of passengers, "well knowing their duty in that regard, but being wholly unmindful and disregarding the same, feloniously, wilfully and with force and arms, with gross and culpable negligence did then and there wholly omit and neglect to keep the tracks of the said railroad in proper condition and repair for safe travel, and wholly omitted and neglected to furnish and provide a sufficient number of brakemen on said train so running on said track of said railroad for the safety and preservation of the passengers riding upon said trains; and wholly omitted and neglected to furnish and supply a sufficiency of proper implements for the protection of the lives of said passengers, and did wholly omit and neglect to use and exercise every care and precaution in their power to prevent accident and the injury and death of any passengers on said trains; neglected to employ competent and careful engineers and neglected to provide and maintain cross-overs of sufficient length to permit engines and trains to pass from one track to another in safety."

There are four counts in the warrants, the fourth charging specifically that the cross-over in use on the line at the point of the accident was too short and that as a result of this and the speed at which the train was running, it was derailed and wrecked when it attempted to pass from the inner to the outer track.

TO HAVE CARE OF $3,000,000.

Miss Bessie Townsend Appointed City Comptroller in Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 31.—It is believed that a precedent is established in municipal affairs of the country by the appointment of a woman as city comptroller here. Miss Bessie Townsend, 21 years old, received the appointment yesterday at a salary of $1,600 a year. She will have care of over $3,000,000 and the sale of all the city's bonds. The young woman's signature will be necessary for every cent paid out by the city.

THE HENLEY HERE.

Torpedo Destroyer the First Ship to Have Both Turbine and Reciprocating Engines.

The new torpedo boat destroyer Henley, Lieutenant Commander W. L. Littlefield, arrived at the Torpedo Station Monday afternoon from the Boston navy yard, where she was recently put in commission. The Henley was built at the works of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy, Mass., and is of the same displacement, 742 tons, as the other destroyers commissioned in the last two years. The Henley is fitted with combination reciprocating and turbine engines, and is oil burning. The boat will receive its torpedo outfit here and proceed Wednesday for Norfolk to join the other destroyers of the Atlantic fleet for winter manoeuvres in southern waters. She has not yet been assigned to any group of the torpedo flotilla.

The Henley is the first ship of the United States navy to be equipped with both turbine and reciprocating engines. Because of this peculiar combination, which is intended to afford economical and effective steaming under all conditions great interest is being taken in the ship by naval men, not only in America but abroad. Although the Henley is the first to have both kinds of engines, the Fore River shipyard is building another, the Duncan, and others are to come later.

DEMANDS MAY BE MET.

New York Hotel Employes Expected to Walk Out Tonight.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—A strike of thousands of waiters, cooks, kitchen workers and elevator runners in the big hotels of the city has been set for tonight, New Year's eve, by the International Hotel Workers union. Whether they will obey the order is problematical. The hotel managers say there will be no difficulty in handling the throngs which watch the old year out.

According to the union officials, several big hotels, in which every table had been engaged for tonight, have already agreed to meet the waiter's demands, and they predict that others will fall into line during the day. Although members of the Hotel Men's Association thought there would be no strike a hurried meeting if the organization was called for this afternoon to frame plans to meet a possible emergency.

It has been estimated that New Yorkers spend $2,000,000 in feasting on New Year's eve.

However one may feel about fire insurance, there is no substitute for life insurance, and there is no better company than the New York Life with an honorable record of 67 years, and over 700 millions assets.

DIES OF BROKEN NECK.

Adolph Gotch, Brother of the Wrestler, Falls Out of a Bath Tub.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30.—Adolph Gotch, 27 years old, brother of Frank Gotch, the champion heavyweight wrestler, met death in a peculiar manner in a rooming house in Dauphine Street here, late last night. Shortly after Gotch had repaired to a bath room, groans were heard. Breaking open the door the occupants of the house found him stretched out on the floor, in a dying condition. He died before physicians arrived. Coroner O'Hara declared that death was due to a broken neck, sustained in falling out of the bath tub. Gotch was employed as a stationary engineer.

FINDS TRUST LAW VIOLATION.

Federal Court Decision Changes Coal Rates from West Virginia.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 30.—A decision holding that the Lake Shore & Southern, Chesapeake & Ohio, Hocking Valley, Toledo & Ohio Central, and Kanawha & Michigan railroads have combined to violate the Sherman anti-trust law was handed down today by the United States circuit court as a result of a suit brought in the local federal court last June.

The decision, it is expected, will make a sweeping change in the shipping rates from the West Virginia coal fields and in the methods of transportation. An order issued by the court makes imperative the sale of more than 100,000 acres of the finest coal land in the Kanawha, Va., district, now owned jointly by the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroads and the Sunday Creek Coal Company, which it was brought out was owned by the railroads.

"Neither did I," answered her brother unfeelingly. "I thought it would empty it."

Sciatica and Neuritis

The prodding pains of rheumatism, sciatica and neuritis cannot long stand before the proof we furnish of the work being done through the country by "Nurito," the prescription in powder form which is a positive antidote for uric acid poison.

It is a physician's prescription, pharmaceutically compounded, without a trace of opiate, narcotic or any harmful drug. Reputable physicians all over the country are prescribing it as a long needed remedy and the news of their success is traveling. It was this news of the universal success of "Nurito" which induced us first to bring it to this city.

At last here is a prescription—not a patent medicine—which will positively, and under a sufficient guarantee, permanently and quickly relieve every case of rheumatism, sciatica and neuritis. It is pure negligence, entailing a continuance of your suffering, not to try it. Particularly those who may think their cases are of long standing and cannot be cured are invited to try "Nurito," with our assurance that the ingredients are absolutely harmless.

We ask you as friends to believe this statement. Try a $1 or $2 box and have the glorious sensation of feeling the pains and aches leaving you. Magistral Chemical Co., Flatiron Bldg., N. Y. For sale by

BUILD UP NEW ENGLAND.

The Industrial Bureau of the New England Railroad Lines invites the co-operation of merchants, manufacturers and business men for the upbuilding of New England.

In 18 months to November 1, 1912,68 manufacturing firms representing an investment of $2,600,000, have been established in New England as the direct result of the work of the New England Lines "Industrial Bureau" in co-operation with chambers of commerce, boards of trade and business associations in New England.

These newly established industries are now employing more than 3600 people, which according to social science statistics must represent a population of 12,000.

Nearly half of these industries were established in six months preceding Nov. 1st.

The New England Railroad Lines represent more than $700,000,000 invested in New England transportation. These lines can be prosperous only as New England is prosperous.

The capital invested in mercantile and manufacturing lines in New England has and ought to have a larger return than capital invested in transportation.

Therefore, whenever you hear of any one seeking location for an industry don't hesitate to promptly notify the Industrial Bureau, South Station, Boston, that we may co-operate to bring the bu ness into New England.

THEATRE GOING IN 1912.

Long List of Plays and New Productions Makes the Year Notable in New York.

[New York Tribune.]

"Give us this day our daily play" is the new invocation for the theatre-maudlin New Yorker, who is getting to feel neglected if a day goes by on which nothing new is offered him. Few such days pass, however, for since the first day of this year 250 prominent theatrical events of various kinds have taken place in the leading theatres, not including the Hippodrome, the stock theatres, the one-week theatres, the varieties, the burlesques or the roof gardens. Of this astounding list 93 have been productions of new dramas in leading Broadway theatres, 44 have been of musical plays, and there have been 31 revivals. Of prominent dramatic entertainments, such as benefits, special matinees, etc., there have been 62. Twenty plays have been produced in the decent foreign languages, such as German and Russian—dear knows how many in Yiddish. The Yiddish theatre world in New York is a universe in itself, at which statistics themselves stagger. Besides all the varieties of dramatic endeavor above mentioned, there were six separate productions of fashionable motion pictures, for which attractively extravagant prices were charged. On the whole a notable year.

Suppose any one person had tried to attend even the productions of new and revived plays, serious, farcical, comical and musical. There were 103 of these in the English language—or a language as nearly akin to English as our French, German, Austrian, Italian, Russian, Bohemian, Dutch, Yiddish and American actors can speak. As the dramatic season is 40 weeks long, the person who wanted to see all the new productions once would have been obliged to go to the theatre four nights a week and take in a matinee nearly every Saturday from January until June and from the first of September until now. The cost of the proceeding per person (for an orchestra chair) would have been $336, not including carfare or sodas. And who goes to the theatre alone?

Trying to estimate the amount of money spent on this theatrical debauch there are two sides of it to consider—the amount spent by the public and the amount spent by the managers. That the public has spent about $50,000,000 is the nearest estimate that can be obtained. And a guarantee that the managers spent less than the public is the fact that we have all the managers still with us, and always more promised. Every other person that is born in New York nowadays lives to become a theatrical manager. Why laugh at the barbers for writing plays? Every one must write plays if the demand is to be supplied. The only New Yorkers who have had their hands too full to become playwrights are the subway guards.

Ninety-three new dramas and 44 new musical plays produced for runs in one year! More than were offered in London, Paris, Vienna, Budapest, Moscow, Copenhagen, Stockholm and New Haven all together. Nineteen hundred and twelve cannot certainly be numbered among the years of discretion.

This fall season alone has seen the opening of five new theatres—the Forty-eighth Street, the Fulton, the Weber & Fields' Music Hall, the Cort and the Children's Theatre. So now the tots have a theatre of their own. For young folks most of the theatres are catering. There are a few for grown folks. Some one will no doubt soon build a theatre for old folks, but there is one class that no one is likely ever to build a theatre for, and that is poor folks. Yet a poor folks' theatre, where good things were well played, might not be so bad an investment.

Meantime the man and woman who once rashly decided on first-nighting as an avocation are fast approaching dissolution. The newest need of the community is a sanatorium for first nighters to which these overstrained but well meaning people could be rushed in ambulances each night after their midnight supper. The place should be located in one of those quiet corners of Westchester where there are no early morning cobblestones with milkmen rumbling over them, no scissors grinders, no echoing air-shafts, no dumbwaiter whistles, no pianos and no sopranos.

In the evolution of things dramatic in New York, Broadway will no doubt one day become restricted theatrical property—nothing but theatres from Bowling Green to Spuyten Duyvil. Why not? What a midway plaisance it would make winding up the spine of the island like a glittering snake!

For what new theatres and new plays it will bring us, hail 1913!

Chambers, receiving ship at Boston; Fred San Soucie, to the naval station, Cavite.

THE PROMISE.

[Lurana Sheldon in New York Times.]

The year is passing; in each hour I see
Some bygone vision of life's mystery,
Yet on the canvas, stretched within my view,
Are other pictures, wonderful and new.

The year is passing: From each echoing threat
The dim past past falters an harmonious note.
Yet while I list a lighter song I hear—
The future's anthem, strong and brave and clear!

The year is passing: Gone too soon the hours,
The bird-song sweet, the music of the flowers;
Yet as old Winter lowers his twilight pall
Across the sky the New Year's heralds call!

THE NEWS IN PROVIDENCE.

The Daily News is on sale in Providence the evening of publication at Union Station.

THE NEW HAVEN SELLING ITS STEAMSHIPS.

The announcement by President Mellen that the New Haven company will sell all its steamship lines indicates a disposition to comply with the demands of public sentiment and legislation that railroad companies should confine themselves to railroading and not go into the business of steamboating, or manufacturing steel rails, or mining and marketing coal, or doing other things which bring them into competition with other producers who, not having railroads, are apparently at some disadvantage.

Yet there is no doubt that there is some gain for efficiency in the operation of steamship lines by the railroad companies with which they connect and roads have gone into the coal and iron and lumber business in order to develop their freight traffic. There has, however, been much suppression of competition, and while the facts are in dispute the preponderance of evidence is to the effect that charges have increased as competition has gone down. Public sentiment is pretty sensitive, and not without reason, over the suppression of competition and the control, almost complete according to the report of Commissioner Conant, of the coastwise and lake navigation by the railroad companies.

We see merchants and most manufacturers in active competition, and that this competition results in the lowering of prices. We are not greatly to blame, therefore, if we suspect that the suppression of competition means higher prices. Yet we have not succeeded in divorcing the railroad and the coal mining business, and the New Haven company is the first which gives any indication of a disposition to separate land from water transportation. We have had little success in our efforts to make railroads compete with each other. In the end we shall probably abandon all efforts to enforce competition and depend upon the Interstate Commerce Commission to protect us from unreasonable rates, which competition does where it is practicable. It looks more and more as though it were impracticable in transportation.

MISSOURI'S LAMENT.

We are surprised to see that a Missouri newspaper is complaining that the commonwealth is without a state song. We believe state songs are not common. We doubt if any considerable number of the indestructible states which compose our indissoluble Union have songs, so that the destitution of Missouri is not exceptional and makes no deep appeal to public sympathy.

Besides, we supposed it had a state song. We were told so last summer. We understood that Missouri was one of the states which was provided not only with a great seal but with a great song. Were not all the Missourians and many other people singing "They gottin quit kickin' my dawg aroun'?" We were assured that that was the state song and that it was the greatest song that ever was, just as Missouri in the opinion of its own patriotic people is the greatest state that ever was or ever will be.

It is true that the people from other states did not quit kicking the "houn' dawg" around. He was kicked out of the convention in Baltimore. He was treated shamefully in the very place where he confidently believed he had established himself as the mascot, not only of the state of Mizzouruh but of the Democratic party, and indeed of the nation. Yet we did not suppose the people of Missouri would join the rest of the Democratic party in kicking the poor beast around. We supposed they would stand by the pup which had stood so well by them. We never dreamed that they would disown the animal merely because he had a tin pail tied to his tail by that dreadful boy from Nebraska, Willie J. Bryan.

If Missouri has no state song, then it has kicked the houn' dawg out, and people who would treat a faithful beast in that way because he was unlucky and had to flee before yells of "Mad dog!" do not deserve a dog; they do not even deserve a state song. We insist on knowing what has become of the houn' dawg. Isn't Champ Clark still Speaker of the House of Representatives? Is he not ready to cut the new administration, and cut it deep, if Bryan goes into the cabinet? Is there anything the matter with the teeth of the famous and lyrical old dog?

THE BATTLE AGAINST INSANITY.

Scientists and physicians are realizing, if the mass of men and women do not, that one of the greatest problems which confronts the world today is that of the care and cure of the insane. This is particularly acute in this country and it is evident to those well informed concerning the conditions that the situation must be met with vigor and wisdom or it will become much more serious and challenge conquest. Some idea of what this situation is can be gathered from statistics recently compiled, which are interesting and illuminating at the same time that they are fairly staggering when one appreciates their meaning. At the beginning of the year 1910, according to figures which are accepted by medical and scientific men as accurate, there were in this country in institutions 187,454 insane persons. This is a great company, which outnumbers the entire strength of the army, navy and marine corps of the United States, and is also greater than the large body of students in all the colleges of the land. These are startling figures and comparisons and should serve to awaken interest in this subject, as they give a glimpse of the conditions which exist in regard to mental disease in this country.

In connection with the statement that there are so many insane persons in these institutions naturally arises the question of the cost of the care of these wards of the states, and it is not surprising to find that it represents a sum quite amazing to those who have given little or no heed to the matter. To care for patients suffering from mental diseases in the public institutions of the United States cost more than $32,000,000 a year, which exceeds the amount required to maintain several of the most expensive departments of the national government. To this must be added the economic loss which the country suffers by the withdrawal of all these persons from productive labor, representing in excess of $130,000,000 a year, reckoning the value of each adult to the community at $700 annually, which is the estimated usually accepted. This makes a grand total exceeding $163,000,000, which equals the value of the entire annual production of wheat, corn, tobacco and dairy and beef products exported from this country.

Striking as are these figures for the nation, they are still more notable when they are taken for a single large state, like New York. In that commonwealth the amount appropriated for the care of the insane the past year was 23 per cent of the total expenditures. This is but one per cent less than was spent for education, while the total for the care of all other classes of defectives who are the wards of the state was only eight per cent, and the amount for health and quarantine but one per cent. These figures are sufficient to cause any one concerned for the welfare of the people and the progress of the state to pause and consider whither we are trending and what the end will be if something effective is not done promptly to stay this tide of insanity which is sweeping over the land.

The remedy undoubtedly lies in the development of mental hygiene and the devotion of more thought and time to the consideration of plans and methods for decreasing to a material degree the progress of the terrible disease which is attacking the intellects of the people and causing them to fill insane hospitals all over the country. If, as is probable, a large part of the increase in insanity is due to the conditions under which we live and work in these days, then it is time the people were taught in some way to learn reason and to preserve their physical and mental health, instead of dissipating it in such a manner as to bring on mental disease. Mental hygiene is the means to which the medical fraternity is turning attention in this real crisis of the day and laymen as well as physicians will welcome any means of reducing the prevalence of this disease of the mind and making it easier for men and women to live under present conditions and retain the normal vigor and poise of their faculties.

The New Hampshire legislature will be confronted by a peculiar situation when it meets. In November the people of the state adopted a constitutional amendment providing for the election of state officers by plurality vote. At the same time there was no choice for governor by a majority. The Democratic nominee received a plurality, and the question to be determined is whether the constitutional amendment will apply to the candidates voted upon at the same time the amendment was acted upon. If it is decided that the amendment does not apply to this year's voting the legislature will elect a governor, as well as several state senators in districts where no candidate received a majority vote. The Democratic candidates who received pluralities will try to secure a decision favorable to them.

Turkey, after two weeks delay, has finally shown her hand in the peace conference, asking for mediation by the great powers as a means for allowing her to emerge from the war under the best possible conditions. Mediation has two advantages from the Turkish point of view. The tendency of such an arrangement always is in the direction of a compromise. In the second place mediation would save the government's prestige in the eyes of the people by making it appear that Turkey concedes the sacrifices, which she inevitably must make, to the pressure of all Europe, instead of at the dictation of the heretofore despised Balkan states. The allies are expected to oppose to the last any such arrangement for the settlement of the war.

A new phase of the woman suffrage campaign in New York is that started by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who has organized a class of 100 members of the Junior Suffragist Club to study elocution and dramatics. The training is expected to serve a useful purpose, as it is believed it will fit the young suffrage workers, including both men and women, to appear as orators during the campaign of 1915, the year of the proposed suffrage referendum in New York state.

Governor-elect Sulzer of New York does not propose to be troubled with office seekers, politicians and would-be advisers before his inauguration. He left New York Monday and lost himself somewhere on the way to Albany. He even missed the suffragists, who walked from New York to the capital. The new governor will undoubtedly be on hand for the inauguration, and will then have trouble enough. No one will begrudge him a few hours of freedom now.

Now for the new year!

RAISING PERRY'S FLAGSHIP.

Hull of the Old Niagara Sunk Near Erie Will Soon be Recovered by Dredgers.

Active work on raising the hull of the historic flagship of the fleet of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry has been started in Misery bay, Lake Erie. The contractors employed by the Pennsylvania state commission have sent over the first cargoes of coal to the scow and dredge that will be operated in the work. The first work will consist in dredging the sand, varying from one to six feet in depth, that has drifted over the hull of the vessel since she was sunk about 100 years ago, after having been brought back to Presque Isle harbor from the victory at Put-in-Bay, known as the Battle of Lake Erie.

All of the Niagara has disappeared excepting the bottom of the hull, partly buried in the sand. A diver last spring, acting for the state commission, went down in the 35 feet of water and reported that the keel of the flagship was intact for a length of about 40 feet and a depth of four to six feet. This framework of heavy timbers will be used as a nucleus for the construction of a replica of the vessel that will lead the restored fleet to a dozen cities of as many states where Perry centennial celebrations are to be held next summer.

The Lawrence was raised in 1876.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Miss Lillian Wheeler entertained at her home at Bristol Ferry Monday, Mrs. Abner P. Slocum and Miss Marion Hatch of Newport, Miss Lydia Barker of New York, Miss Myrtalie Barker and Miss Anna Johnson of Fall River.

Mrs. L. A. Popple entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. George R. Manchester and their three daughters, Helen, Mary and Hope, and Mr. M. W. Davis of South Framingham.

The parlor meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which was to have been held Monday evening with the president, Mrs. Eunice A. Greene, was postponed on account of the storm.

Mrs. W. H. Tallman is ill with a severe cold. Mrs. William J. Irish, who has been under the care of a physician, is somewhat better.

By actual count there are more than 50 cases of grip and grip colds, some of them severe, in the south part of the town.

Mr. Levi Almy came from Bristol Monday morning to see his mother, Mrs. Jacob Almy, who has been quite ill since Christmas. In coming up the wet board walk from the ferry boat he slipped and seriously sprained his ankle, so that his brother, Mr. Gideon W. Almy, returned him to the boat in his automobile.

Mrs. Levi Almy is ill with the grip and lumbago, and attended by a physician.

Mrs. Oliver G. Hicks is suffering from a sprained ankle.

Mrs. William Almy of Tiverton is helping to care for her mother-in-law, Mrs. Jacob Almy, for a few days.

More than 25 per cent of the pupils at the Vaucluse school are absent on account of severe colds.

Mrs. Martha B. Eddy has returned from Brooklyn, where she spent her vacation with her brother, Mr. Robert Edie, and wife.

Mr. John Tew Carr, farmer at "Sunnyfields Farm," who has been seriously ill, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Beuren are planning a trip abroad in the near future.

The rain of the past week filled the wells and ponds, so that many farmers who have been obliged to cart water or drive their stock a long distance, now have plenty, for the first time since the drought began in August.

Quite a number of Portuguese have gone to California, looking for "big money" and less work. Some who have been and returned say California is "a rich man's land" and no place for a poor man to try to live.

Mrs. Winfred Carter, who has been ill for the last two months, is convalescing.

Mrs. Mary Harrison of Providence, with her sons, James and Robert, who spent Christmas with her sister, Mrs. Penny, returned to Providence Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Fish have returned to Dorchester.

Card of Thanks.

I hereby extend my sincere thanks to the Newport Fire Department, for protecting my property from fire on the morning of Sunday, Dec. 29.

EARLIEST EASTER SINCE 1856.

Arrives March 23 for the First Time in Fifty-Seven Years.

Coming on the Edge of Winter Will Affect Fashions and Fifth Avenue Parade.

When Mayor Gaynor said that New York had been caught napping he was not thinking of Easter; he was thinking of steamship piers. But being caught napping when one should be building long piers for long steamers is no more embarrassing than waking up to find your annual spring holiday knocking at the door with the thermometer below freezing, snow on the ground, and your "spring things" still in moth balls, or at best, in a still unfinished state at the tailor's, the milliner's or the dressmaker's. And that is the predicament New York may find itself plunged in when dawns the morning of March 23, 1913.

That is the date on which Easter Sunday falls this—beg pardon, next—year. With cries of "Do your Christmas shopping early" still ringing in the atmosphere, not many people have thought of other holidays to conquer. But as a matter of cold (perhaps, literally cold), record let it be here set down that Easter will arrive promptly March 23, and that it hasn't arrived so early since the good old days of 1856, when there was no Easter parade, and folks had not taken to blossoming out in brand-new, almost summery attire, in honor of the occasion.

If you were to take the Fourth of July and present it to the 90,000,000 or so citizens of this land in mid-June, or if you were to grant them Christmas and all that goes with it early in December, the upheaval would be no greater than it will be when Easter makes its untimely appearance in the blustering, stormy, cold, cheerless, and altogether unliked and disagreeable month of March—the month of the great blizzard of '88 and other regrettable things atmospheric. Whatever comfort there is in knowing that Easter came as early as this 57 years ago, or even a day earlier in 1812, or even two days earlier in the year 887 A. D. in that part of the world known as Gaul—may be extracted at will. The point is that in 387, also in 1812, and in 1856, so far as records go, Easter parades were not in fashion, and the particular date did not matter very much.

But it is a different matter in this day and age. Many good people have come to make use of Easter in much the same manner as the astronomer uses the North Star. And ask any star gazer what his feelings would be if tonight he found that old reliable fixture out of place in the firmament. To be sure, Easter has always enjoyed the privilege of roving more or less at random over the Gregorian calendar. It obeys one of the oldest laws man ever devised. This is that the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox shall be called Easter. Usually you may depend on it to work out so that Easter comes where it properly belongs, but this year it is a case of the vernal equinox, full moon, and Sunday following so close upon each other's heels that the holiday is at hand before anybody, much less the weather, is really ready for it.

In every school and college Easter is now synonymous with spring, recess. A holiday of from three days to two weeks is declared. Children and young men and women are sent home, teachers go off on special-rate tours to Washington, Niagara Falls and Bermuda, and all hands make the most of a seasonable change of climate. Courses of study are arranged with Easter in mind. It is the time for "exams" in a host of places. The curriculum is wound up and set to "go off" like an alarm clock at Easter time. All of which is thrown out of kilter this season. The spring home coming or special-rate tour will be a frost-bitten affair at best, and just how to wedge in the perennial Easter "exams" is a problem that many a faculty has yet to solve.

Consider the florist, the tailor, the milliner. Nay, more, consider the lilies. An Easter lily will submit to just so much treatment to retard or hasten its growth, but it must be allowed to mature in its own sweet way after a certain point. The extra amount of forcing that will be necessary in order to supply New York with Easter lilies March 23 is going to make the price of Easter lilies go up this season. Florists say this, and they ought to know. For one thing, lilies will be scarcer. In order to force the blossoms, the hothouses must be steam-heated to a temperature of 100 or 110 degrees for days at a stretch. Some of the smaller florists cannot get up that much steam. With normal March weather outside they will be short the usual supply of lilies when Easter arrives. Consequently, prices will go up.

Florists also say they have foreseen the fix they are likely to find themselves in, and have planned accordingly. There is the Bermuda or Harrisii lily, and there is the Japanese or Formosum lily. The Bermuda kind can be forced; the Japanese brand cannot. In normal years both kinds are raised for Easter consumption in equal number, but this year there has been a rush to plant the Bermuda variety, all because of the premature Easter. The bulbs were set out last August, and the various stages in their development have been hastened always with an eye on the date. March 23. By ignoring coal bills and keeping full steam on in the hothouse radiators, florists say they will be able to supply New York with its accustomed Easter blossoms, no matter what sort of weather March 23 may bring forth.

With the other flowers, they are less anxious. Azaleas come from Belgium, and may be forced with little difficulty, even for Christmas. Rhododendrons from Holland also respond to treatment. Hyacinths, daffodils, tulips and narcissus, when grown in the hothouse, may be made to blossom almost at the will of the florist overlord, so that the chief concern is, and will be until March 23, the lily.

A much more vexing question to solve in advance is the Fifth Avenue parade. Of late years New York has taken to parading Easter day with all the pomp and ceremony that new clothes, new gowns and new bonnets demand. It is a sartorial pageant in which the male of the species is as deadly in earnest as the female—for once. The question is, What sort of an Easter parade can they possibly hold with the weather of any one of the 57 disagreeable varieties for which March is famous? And it is a question, a real question, with some people.

Every year one or two daring and venturesome souls (male) go parading down the avenue, Easter Sunday, in the first straw hats of the season. Will they preserve the tradition this year? Will they wear the inevitable straw, even though the rest of the outfit includes winter overcoat, muffler, and ear-caps? The records of the weather bureau show that March is a most uncertain month. March 23, for example, had a balmy 75-degree temperature in 1907, and was clear and sunshiny. Yet March 23, 1906, revelled in a mid-winter temperature of 17 degrees—a bit cold for summer straws, they say.

Will milady walk the avenue in her Easter bonnet if it is a 17 degree day this time? It seems hardly likely. Milliners and modistes say they begin to "create" the spring wonders, worn for the first time at Easter, soon after Christmas. As far as they personally are concerned, there is no question about being able to attend to their end of the parade. It will mean more hustling for a few weeks, but they can do it. What they are worrying about is whether the premature Easter will put a blight on the annual airing of new attire—which means much to them.

With them the motto from now on will be: "Do your Easter shopping early."

MARRED BY ROUGH WORK.

Keen Rivalry in Basket Ball Game, But the Father Mathews Get Better of St. Joseph's.

Monday evening's basket ball game in the City League series, which resulted in a victory for the Father Mathews by a score of 20 to 15, was marred by a number of useless arguments and fights, which not only interfered with the progress of the game but made it altogether unpleasant for those who came for the purpose of witnessing an orderly and sportsmanlike contest. In spite of the fouls called from time to time the players continued to mix it up so that Referee Sullivan finally declared that unless the rough work stopped he would call the game. This warning had the effect of quieting matters for a while, and the play went along smoothly until the finish, when the down-town and up-town rooters had a final argument. It was known that the rivalry between the supporters was especially keen, but it was hardly expected that it would be demonstrated so plainly.

The first argument started because Vice President Young of the League informed Referee Sullivan that Williams would be barred from the game on the ground of professionalism, having played with the old Naval Reserves a few nights ago. As if to contest this ruling, Williams appeared in the line-up with St. Joseph's when it was time to start the game. There was nothing doing, naturally, until another man was substituted in his place. Referee Sullivan said he would allow St. Joseph's 15 minutes to put in some one else and Kenny was secured.

This seemed to furnish a starter, for after that there were several mix-ups, which served only to interfere with the progress of the game. The Tabs, however, had the better of the game throughout, the first half ending 13 to 9 in their favor. This meant a chance for St. Joseph's to come back in the second, and the battle in that period was a strenuous one, showing plainly the rivalry. The complaint was not against the players, however, but rather against the spectators, who insisted upon leaving their seats and crowding on the floor. The management did what it could to stop this, but the feeling ran high and it was a bigger task than they could handle. The line-up and summary:

Father Mathews	St. Joseph's.
Kirwin, McCarthy, r. f.	l. g., Kenny
Nolan, l. f.	r. g., Murphy
McGrath, c.	c., O'Connell
Martin, r. g.	l. f., P. Carr
Horgan, l. g.	r. f., R. Carr

Score—Father Mathew 20, St. Joseph's 15. Goals from floor—Martin 3, McGrath 2, McCarthy 2, Nolan, R. Carr 3, O'Connell 2, P. Carr, Kenny. Goals from fouls—McGrath 2 Nolan, Martin, O'Connell. Referee—Sullivan. Scorer—Clarke. Timer—Johnson. Time—20-minute periods.

SKATING RINK PLANS.

Manager Soreiro has arranged another novelty for the roller rink, a country store skate party, at which prizes will be given consisting of legs of lamb, ribs of pork and other meats, vegetables and groceries. Attendance at the rink for that evening is suggested as one means of cutting down the cost of living.

The management is arranging for a five-mile relay race between Bradford Shepley, Earl Bryer and Chester Smith, in which Shepley will compete against Bryer and Smith, who will skate in relays. The rink will give prizes to the finner or winners.

A neffort is being made to arrange a club racing tournament, in which representatives of various clubs of fraternal organizatoins will compete in a regular series, a loving cup being offered to the club whose representative wins.

A movement for basket ball on skates has been amandoned, as it was found impossible to secure the old St. Joseph's Church for a playing hall.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—"Sea Going Tony" is back from a visit to New York.

—Mr. Hugh J. Campbell is ill at his home on Thames Street.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Tallman have returned from a visit to New York.

—Mr. James J. Dugan, who had been in New York for some days, has returned.

—Mr. Edward B. Pitman is visiting his brother, Mr William S. Pitman, in Baltimore.

—Machinist's Mate William Bobley of the Torpedo Station has gone to his home in Ohio on a ten day's furlough.

—Mr. Jeremiah A. Corcoran announces that he is to be a candidate for inspector of plumbing at the meeting of the Representative Council.

—The Block Island steamer New Shoreham's winter schedule omits two of the present trips, those of Tuesday and Friday. This is the same as in years past.

—Mr. William Sullivan of the Western Union Office, Bridgeport, Conn., returned to his work this afternoon, after spending a week with his mother on Dearborn street.

—Mr. Robert Conlkin, chief master-at-arms, with his wife and family are in New York, where they will visit relatives and friends. Mr Conlkin will later go to his ship, the Chester, at Philadelphia.

—Captain Willis C. Metcalf spent a few minutes in town this morning, mustering his forces at the recruiting station, and then left for Fall River, Worcester and Providence, where he must go throuhg this form on the last day of the month and year.

—The police report this morning was brief. It was only a notice to a number of boys who have been making a nuisance of themselves to be present Wednesday morning at the station with their parents, to answer to charges which will be preferred against them.

—Rev. R. T. Capers, principal of the South China Baptist Academy at Swatow, China, will address the Brotherhood of the Second Baptist Church next Tuesday evening, at an open meeting for men and women. Rev. Mr. Capers, is an interesting speaker, who has recently returned from the new republic.

—There will be some competition for the office of inspector of buildings at the coming session of the Council, for Mr. James Smith, architect, announces that he is a candidate for the position. Mr. C. Grant Caswell, a carpenter, is also a candidate. It seems unnecessary to add that the present incumbent is also to run.

—Lighter J. K. Sullivan is still at work on the overturned lighter which capsized off Fort Adams lately. A part of the A frame, the boom, an anchor and a mooring have been dragged from under the craft and it is thought that boilers and other material are held to the hull by wire rigging. A diver is here from Boston to go below and untangle the mass, so that the material may be hoisted out.

Amelia C. Moffitt, 7 Bull street, house, through the Henry Bull Company, adjusted for $40.60.

William R. Howard, Broadway, building insured for $3,000 by the Henry Bull Company, and $1,000 by the C. A. Hammett Company, adjusted for $375.60.

John A. Leary, Broadway, building, insured by the Henry Bull Company for $4,000, adjusted for $295.50.

T. J. Mulcahy, Bull street, furniture, insured by Edward L. Spencer, adjusted for $100.

One of the small safes was taken from the Weaver ruins Monday and carried to the company's temporary quarters. It was opened this morning and was found to have well protected the contents, the book accounts of the concern, the most valuable of all the records. The loose leaf system was used, and while the edges of the leaves show the effects of the intense heat to which the safe was subjected, the examination of the contents has gone sufficiently far to convince the management that it will be possible to transcribe the accounts on new forms which will stand more rugged handling.

This safe was a new one, on the main floor, and since the fire proofing of a safe is said to deteriorate with age and become practically nothing in 20 or 25 years it seems probable that the age of the safe counted for much in this case. There has been much interest among business men regarding the condition of the contents of safes in this fire, because of its great heat, many contending that it would be impossible for the contents to survive such heat.

Another large safe, with stock accounts and other records, is still in the ruins and the fact that one has proved so efficient gives hopes that the other may. A third lies in the cellar close to Broadway, with the door partially open, but this is an old one which was on the second floor and contained nothing.

While all sorts of rumors are in circulation as to what the firm proposes to do in the way of re-building, The News was informed authoritatively this noon that no decision had been reached and none will be for a week or 10 days, by which time it will have been possible to secure an adjustment with the insurance companies. As matters now stand it is of course necessary to secure the stock records, and it may be a day or two before they can be taken from the ruins.

There is still much heat there and this was displayed Monday night, after the rain ceased, when they began to blaze again and required attention from firemen with a stream of water for about two hours.

In the report of the fire Monday no mention was made of the serving of coffee and food to the firemen. It was hoped to obtain a complete list of those who did this, but this has been found impossible. It did seem that almost everybody who had facilities to do so, and who was close to the firemen, did something. People were seen with pitchers, small and large, handing out hot coffee all along. There were also places where they firemen were called in. The parsonage of the First Baptist Church, Colonel John C. Seabury's and others were in this list. The residents on Sherman street generally did what they could to supply the men who were working with coffee, sandwiches and other materials. Some cigars were passed.

The firemen have expressed a desire that special mention be made of the kindness of Mrs. W. T. Libby. She opened her bakery and placed a their disposal the entire stock of the shop, in addition to which she made coffee, and thus many of the men were able to secure quite a substantial meal upon which to continue their work.

Mr. Weaver gave instructions to Egan & Burke to supply the firemen in their vicinity with coffee, sandwiches or anything to eat at his expense, and they had a rushing trade outside the firemen.

The firemen are greatly disturbed over the reports printed in out-of-town papers that the army and navy forces had to be called upon and responded with apparatus and fireboats, thus saving the city. They contend that they could have won without even the presence of the Training Station engine, and it is now stated in an unofficial way that the call to the Station was not at the instigation of the department. At the fire there was much talk about the need of assistance and there are strong indications that some citizen assumed the authority of sending in the call.

Th police maintain a constant guard over the ruins and this is giving extra duty to the regular force, Sunday night specials were called in to do the work as the regulars were tired out and many were required to watch the menacing places. There are still dangerous points about he ruins and people will persist in roaming about. In addition, there are those who are awakening to the fact that there are huge quantities of junk in the ruins, particularly those of the Weaver building. As a result parties are trying to get busy, while the police are trying to keep a lookout over the broad space and drive off either junk or relic hunters.

This morning the firemen, who are leaving their hose on the scene, were called upon again to play on the ruins, each time they stop it being their hope that it is the last.

FOR MR. AND MRS. HEATH.

Funeral Service for Two Victims of the Sunday Morning Fire.

A funeral service for two of the victims of Sunday morning's fire, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Heath, was held this afternoon at the Belmont Memorial Chapel, the exercises for Comrade Heath, being in charge of the Grand Army. Rev. Stanley C. Hughes of Trinity Church conducted the service, while the Grand Army ritual was in charge of Commander William S. Bailey and Chaplain John T. Delano. The bearers were Past Commander James H. Hampton, William H. Barlow, Theodore Hudson and George Hall.

Following the service in the chapel the Grand Army ritual was conducted at the grave, where Comrade Clarke placed an American flag on the breast of the dead comrade. The couple were buried in the same grave.

THANKS BOYS OF THE SCHOOL.

Head Master Thompson, for Dr. Darrah, Expresses Gratitude for Saving House From Fire.

Head Master Thompson of the Rogers High School, during the opening exercises in the hall this morning, took occasion to thank, for Dr. R. E. Darrah, the boys of the school who worked with the high school hose on Dr. Darrah's roof during the fire Sunday morning. Mr. Thompson said that, while some of the boys were known, all were not, and so he took the occasion to thank them all for the doctor, who was very grateful. Mr. Thompson said Dr. Darrah's house might have caught fire but for the use of the hose, as it was right in the path of the heaviest shower of sparks when the Smith concrete house on Bull street took fire, and the use of the hose during the entire time was all that saved the Darrah house.

PREPARED FOR CENSUS.

The Takers Will Be Glad If People Are Ready With Information Regarding Children.

Wednesday will be the first day of the new year, 1913, and the census takers will begin their work. There are two sets of census takers—one to take the school census, the names of all the children of school age, and the other to take the birth census for the past year; the latter will take the names of all children born in 1912. If people will remember these facts they can help the census men considerably by being ready to tell them if there are any children of school age, five years and under 17, and if any children were born in 1912—not before, not after. If any have been born in the house, and the parents have moved away, the census men would be glad to have the facts and then the matter may be looked up.

APPEAL FOR IMPROVEMENT OF BUILDING LAW.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Dear Sir: As a member of the committee appointed by the Civic League and other societies to draw up the building law which is now in operation in this city, I would like to call the attention of the city government to the fact that some of the provisions of the law have been declared inadequate, and the statement is made that it does not prohibit the erection of frame buildings inside the fire limit.

In view of the terrible loss of property and of life in the fire of Sunday morning I would respectfully appeal to the Representative Council to correct whatever may need correction in the ordinance, and to do it without delay, lest the city be overtaken by another still more appalling disaster.

Army League of the United States Sets Forth Its Aims and Objects.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Suffragists have received encouragement from the Army League of the United States, which has decided that its membership may include all citizens of good repute, both men and women. The organization, while only recently formed, already includes among its members such names as Theodore Roosevelt, Franville Dodge, Robert Bacon, Curtis Guild, William C. Endicott, August Belmont, Henry A. Dupont and the adjutant general and prominent military officers of many states. The league is non-political.

Following an announcement that in the near future a meeting is to be called to elect permanent officers, a committee representing the league and consisting of Henry White, former ambassador to France; Lieutenant General J. C. Bates, U. S. A. (retired), and Frederick L. Huidekoper, issued a circular letter explaining its aims and objects. The letter says in part:

"We believe that we should have a regular army strong enough to meet the emergencies of the hour and that back of it, engaged in their civic pursuits, should be a sufficient number of trained citizens to augment this army to a force adequate to meet the requirements of war with a first-class power. The Army League desires to impress upon the people of this country the fact that all citizens have a certain military as well as civic responsibility and that they should prepare themselves as fully as possible to discharge this responsibility in an efficient manner. Preparedness is the best insurance against war. This can only be done in time of peace."

BOWLING MATCHES.

The All Stars and Team No. 1 of Land's End Lodge, Order of Moose, Win From Opponents.

The All Stars won two of three strings from the Armour team in the Clerks' bowling tournament Tuesday evening. Vinti of the winners was high roller with singles of 105 and 107 and a three-string total of 307. Burke of the Armours made singles of 106 and 109 and a total of 306. Vietry had the high single, 111. Roach made 110, Ruggeri 108 and Biglietz 100. The scores were as follows:

Boudreau, is in charge and if they furnish as much fun as they did in the rowing races there will be nothing to grieve over.

—Mr. Elmer G. W. Smith, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. Harley Smith of New London, Conn., formerly of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church in this city, has accepted an invitation to become chorister and assistant Sunday School superintendent of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, in Minneapolis, one of the finest of the denomination in that city, at a large salary. He will enter upon his new duties January 9 and expects to resume his university work a year later. His parents will spend their next vacation in the West.

ARBITRATION OF CANAL TOLLS.

President Taft Will Give Senate Opportunity to Act on Treaty.

The United States Sure to Lose—A "Real" Indian—Walnut Trees Wasted for Furniture.

[Washington correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Congress must take the responsibility of blocking arbitration of canal tolls, the big international question in dispute between the United States and Great Britain. In fact, President Taft is going to "put it up" to the Senate in the near future when the British note of protest is communicated to Congress.

Minority Leader Mann, who has given more attention to canal matters than any other member of Congress, asserts positively that the time for arbitration has passed; that, Congress having taken action in fixing tolls, there is no question to arbitrate. President Taft has not agreed with him and is determined to give the Senate an opportunity to act upon an arbitration treaty in accordance with his well known policy of extending arbitration to all disputes.

One reason why there is so much opposition to submitting the canal tolls to arbitration is because it is sure to go against the United States. There can be no question about the terms of the treaty, and no tribunal would decide otherwise. The only object Congress seemed to have in allowing free tolls for American coast-wise ships was to make it appear that we were getting something out of the vast expenditure for constructing the canal. But the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which this country should never have sanctioned, made it imperative to fix all tolls alike, and Congress simply took one method of violating the treaty when free tolls for the coastwise vessels were granted.

Although we are one great, glorious, united people, there are times when it would seem that the divisions between sections are pretty sharply drawn. During the consideration of the immigration bill different constituencies were at times criticised by members. For instance, the charge of illiteracy was flung at some Southern districts, and Southern men retorted by charging that different cities were packed with paupers. Of course the men representing the constituencies criticised came back with hot defenses of their respective districts. It was noticed that these inner wars were generally between the men from the big cities and Southerners. The Southerners were hot for restriction, while the city men were as strongly opposed. The Western farming districts were rather neutral, but the tendency towards restriction was shown in the very large vote for the bill.

Congressman Austin of Tennessee had a very interesting visitor recently when a woman 80 years old called on him. She told him of having once sat in the White House and listened to a discussion between Lincoln and Seward when some matter of importance was considered. And still later she had been in the White House and talked with Garfield just before he left for that fatal trip to the seaside.

Congressman Carter of Oklahoma, who is seven-sixteenths Choctaw and Cherokee Indian, was arraigning the people who were sent into the Indian country for their lack of knowledge of Indian affairs and conditions. It reminded him of meeting a young newspaper man in Washington some time ago and being introduced as an Indian. "Carter, are you a real Indian?" he asked. "I am," replied Carter. "Are you one of the fellows who are on the tribal rolls and get lands and money?" he asked. "I am," again answered Carter. "Well," said the newspaper man, "I am awful glad to meet you. You know I wrote two articles on the habits, traits and characteristics of the American Indian, for which I got $250, and you are the first confounded Indian I ever met in my life."

It is a rather noticeable fact that Senator La Follette was more regularly in his seat during the short session before adjournment than usual. The Wisconsin Senator formerly was not one of those to sit and listen to the debates in the Senate, but that was when the Presidential bee was bothering him to a considerable extent. Now he has more time to give to the business of the Senate.

It is like our people to wake up just a little late and find that something very valuable has been wasted. That was the case with the buffalo and with other things that at one time seemed inexhaustible. Congressmann Raker of California wants to spend $10,000 of government money to see if something cannot be done to preserve walnut trees and cultivate walnuts. The nuts are the very best grown, but there was an awful waste of walnut trees a few years ago to make furniture.

ECZEMA ON LIMB ITCHED DREADFULLY

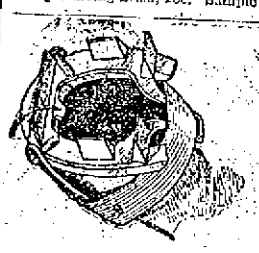

Scratched in Sleep, Spread Rapidly. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Worked Wonders. Stopped Itching and In Less Than a Week Healed Entirely, Cost 75 Cents.

27 Whitney Ave., Cambridge, Mass.—"My trouble was eczema. It began by my hose-supporter rubbing and poisoning the skin on my leg just above the knee. The eruption was small pimples which itched dreadfully. When I scratched them they would scab over and they itched so nights that I scratched the scabs off in my sleep. They spread rapidly. I used witch hazel, different carbolic salves but nothing did it any good until a neighbor told me how her hands were cracked open and bleeding and that Cuticura cured her. I had been to so much expense buying remedies that did no good that I sent for samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment before using. They worked wonders. They stopped the itching and in less than a week's time it had healed entirely, after using a full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap, costing but 75c." (Signed) Mrs. W. E. Lewis, Nov. 25, 1911.

For treating poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorites for more than a generation. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

UNITY OF THE BALKAN ALLIES THREATENED.

Bulgaria Believed to be Working for Her Own Advantage.

Greece Not Allowed to Retain Saloniki, Chalcidice Peninsula and Monastir.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—Excitement is growing among the Balkan allies, whose unity, although maintained in all official manifestations, is in reality threatened.

The greatest fear is entertained that Bulgaria, through her representatives in the present peace conference here, is working chiefly for her own advantage. Accordingly the series of "conversations" between Rechad Pasha, head of the Ottoman legation, and Dr. Daneff, leader of the Bulgarian envoys is watched suspiciously.

Moreover, Greece complains bitterly because she is not allowed to retain Saloniki and the Chalcidice peninsula, which is as Greek as Attica. She also is bitter because she is prevented from occupying Monastir which is taken by Servia, whereas that town is one Acropolis of Greece, containing 20,000 Greeks, 10,000 Bulgarians and 150 Servians.

Greece is furthermore obliged to renounce her possessions of Avalona, a seaport of Albania on the Adriatic, to please Italy. Even her right to remain in the Islands of Thasos, Samothrace, Imbros, Lemnos, Mytilene and Chios, which are thoroughly Greek, is questioned and objection is raised to her taking over from Italy the islands which the latter occupied during the Turco-Italian war, notwithstanding, in a statement to the Italian parliament, Premier Giolitti alluded to Italy's intention to cede them to Greece.

Servia and Montenegro also are dissatisfied at what they consider the sacrifice of their just demands to both Turkey and Austria.

This situation is well understood by the Turks, who are trying to take advantage of it while they are simultaneously playing upon the jealousies of the powers. Almost all rests on the attitude of Bulgaria as to whether it will be possible to prevent these jealousies from gaining the upper hand, and thus maintain the coalition intact against the attempts of Turkey and the powers to destroy it. The allies claim that if united now they would be stronger than ever before even, having re-filled their treasuries through loans concluded in Paris. Greece and Bulgaria obtain funds at seven per cent and Servia at nine per cent.

COMMERCIAL WHARF.

RUSSIA TO MAINTAIN THE PRESENT TARIFFS.

Result of Formal Modus Vivendi Arranged at Washington.

Treaty With America to Remain Unchanged as to Interests of Both.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 31.—The purpose of the Russian government to maintain the present tariffs and the procedure regarding the admission of Americans, including Hebrews, after the termination at midnight tonight of the formal commercial Russo-American treaty, is stated here to be in pursuance of an informal modus vivendi arranged at Washington. The treaty, which was abrogated by the Congress of the United States, because of Russia's attitude upon the passport question, thus will continue practically unchanged so far as the interests of the two parties are concerned. The other existing Russo-American treaties were not affected by the American denunciation of the agreement of 1832.

A source of prospective embarrassment remains in the statutes of the consuls. The present appointees are not affected by the passive agreement to recognize the validity of their official acts, despite the lapse of the treaty, but no method appears through which new appointees may receive their exequaturs. This may become a matter of considerable importance if the change in the American administration in March is accompanied by extensive consular changes. It is quite possible that the situation may be indefinitely prolonged. Apparently there is no disposition in Rusian government circles to take the initiative in the negotiation of a new treaty. The government will await proposals from the Wilson cabinet in the meantime and "stand pat" on present passport regulations.

It is true that Premier Kokovsoff announced in the Duma the intention of introducing legislation revising the passport system, but this measure, which has been hanging fire in successive ministeries of the interior for years, is still apparently in a chaotic form. It is uncertain when it will emerge and still leaves certain when Parliament, which is still grinding on a grist that has awaited action for years, will find time to consider the bill after it is introduced. The situation attracts comparatively no popular interest. The press pays no attention to it and those chiefly interested here are are American importers, who are not wholly convinced that there is a possibility of a tariff war, which might cripple their business.

GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE.

Young James Sullivan Accused of Stealing, Discharged in Care of His Mother.

Judge Franklin had a difficult case to decide in the district court this morning. James Sullivan, a bright looking little fellow, not over 14 years old, was before the court on complaint of the police department. A variety of crimes were laid to him, including the stealing of a box of grapes from a Thames Street fruit store, stealing from the A. & H. G. Hammett lumber yard, and stealing two or three bicycles. Showing the ingenuity of the lad, the wheels had been removed in some cases and the frames thrown overboard. Moreover, when arraigned in the police court the boy had deliberately lied, the judge said.

The boy was questioned by the court and it appeared that his father died when he was 13 months old. He had been a regular attendant at school, never having been in the hands of the truant officer. The boy's mother was in court, and Judge Franklin said he would give the lad another chance, at the same time suggesting that the parent keep a closer watch on the child. One boy had been sent to the Sockanosset School last week, and young Sullivan was given to understand that if he ever appeared before the court again no leniency would be shown. He said he understood and promised to behave. He was then discharged and permitted to leave the courtroom with his mother.

TO GREET THE NEW YEAR.

Watch-Night Services, Sunrise Prayer Meeting and General Suspension of Business.

Wednesday, New Year's day, is a legal holiday and will be quite generally observed. The postoffice will have its usual holiday service, with one delivery by the carriers, two collections and the customary office hours. The banks, public offices and schools will be closed. There will be a quite general closing of the stores, including the dry goods and provision shops, and in many other establishments there will be a suspension of business for the day. The time will be devoted, not to customers, but to closing the business of the old year and preparing for the opening of the new. It is probable that when it becomes known how many have already decided to close others will come into line.

There will be watch-night services tonight in several of the churches, and on New Year's day the Protestant Episcopal churches will have services, while the Roman Catholic churches will observe the Feast of the Circumcision. At the United Congregational Church there will be a sunrise prayer meeting, to greet the new year.

One of the features of the day on its social side will be the combination basket ball game and dance at the Father Mathew hall. The Favorites of Fall River, who will oppose the local team in the basket ball game, are a lively set of players and the contest will undoubtedly be interesting. One hour is allowed for the play and then dancing will be in order during the remainder of the afternoon.

The annual basket ball between the Rogers High School team and the Alumni will also afford an opportunity for seeing a good contest.

You are respectfully invited to attend our

Introductory Sale OF THE NEWEST Nemo

Picture shows the new "Lasticurve-Back" broad gores of elastic which extend far below the back steels and are laced clear down to the end.

The gores are of the new Lastikops Cloth, the latest Nemo elastic fabric, which is guaranteed to retain all of its original elasticity.

When you stand, the very long skirt clings closely, and follows the in-curve of the figure; corset-edge can't show through even a gauzy gown.

When you sit down, the corset-skirt spreads freely—you're comfortable. Two models:

No. 322—low bust } $3.00
No. 324—medium }

Here you have a corset of extreme length that's as easy as an old shoe. The greatest "stout women's" corset ever sold for so little. Fine white coutil, sizes 20 to 36.

SUBSTANTIAL RELIEF FROM HEMORRHOIDS.

A SCIENTIFIC HOSPITAL HOME TREATMENT.

Seldom can any prescribed remedy be altogether effective unless the general health of the patient is normal. In some cases, therefore, constitutional treatment is necessary in order that one many obtain the most satisfactory results.

The English Hemorrhoid Treatment recognizes this fact and has provided this constitutional treatment in its tablets.

The English Hemorrhoid Treatment is a standard proprietary medicine; the formula is on each box.

The English Hemorrhoid Treatment is fully described in a booklet, which can be obtained at most any drug store or by writing direct to English Pharmacal Laboratories, Inc., 1531 Broadway, New York.

It is an excellent treatise on the subject, and should be read by all who are afflicted. Make no mistake. Take no substitute. Ask your druggist.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper 77, American Beet Sugar 48, American Smelting and Refining 72¼, Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe 105¼, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 91⅝, Canadian Pacific 257½, Colorado Fuel and Iron 34, Erie 32, Great Northern preferred 129⅜, Interborough-Metropolitan 18½, Interborough-Metropolitan preferred 63⅞, National Lead 55⅜, Pennsylvania 122, Reading 166½, Rock Island 23½, Southern Pacific 105½, Union Pacific 159⅜, United States steel 67⅝, Lehigh Valley 166¼.

10—Fractional advances were general among the important stocks at the opening today. The Harriman issues and Lehigh Valley, with gains of ⅜ each, lead in the advance, and Reading and Steel also gained substantial fractions. Republic Steel, which lost a point, was the weak spot in the list.

11—The initial rise failed to bring out stocks and the bulls encountered no opposition in putting the list higher. Amalgamated Steel and the Harrimans and Coalers gained about a point.

Noon—Foreign markets had a good tone and this influence, together with the unexpectedly favorable condition in the money market at the close of the year, accounted in a large measure for the improvement which the local market showed at the outset. Bulls operated more confidently and, while they restricted their buying at first to the leaders, the demand gradually widened so as to eventually embrace a large variety of stocks. Manipulation was evident in the rapid rise of some minor specialties, but the list as a whole showed an undercurrent of strength. Call money renewals were made at 6 per cent, as compared with 7 per cent yesterday. Bonds were firm. Money on call, firm, at 5 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent. Exchanges, $234,365,457; balances, $22,246,965.

RAIN NO DETERRENT.

Large Numbers Attend All the Christmas Entertainments.

Play at United Congregational and Emmanuel and Pictures and Sketch at Presbyterian.

The Sunday Schools of the United Congregational, Emmanuel and First Presbyterian Churches had their Christmas entertainments Monday evening, and, in spite of the rain which fell heavily during the early hours, there were large numbers of the pupils and their friends at each.

The entertainment of the United Congregational Sunday School was held in the social rooms of the parish house. There were no gifts for the children, but, following a custom which has been in vogue at this Sunday School for several years, the members of the school brought gifts to be distributed to other children. The feature of the entertainment was a play, "Christmas Gifts of All Nations," which was produced on the stage by members of the school under the direction of Miss Jessie MacLeod, assisted by Miss Laura Barker. The cast of characters was as follows:

Father Christmas, Roderick MacLeod.

Pages, Starlight and Sleighbells, Florence Fulton and Robert Keeler.

Aurora Borealis, Susan H. Sherman.

Gifts—Bundle, Russell Parrott; Candy, Roland Brown; Drum, Peter Fletcher; Doll, Helen Mulcahey.

American children, Dorothy Potter and Francis Clarkson.

German girl, Henrietta Fulton.

Swiss girl, Polly Sypher.

French girl, Floreta Fulton.

Japanese girl, Elizabeth Vernon.

Scotch girl, Jane Langley.

Chinese boy, Frank Bozyan.

Italian girl, Gladys Bozyan.

Spanish girl, Gladys Anderson.

Dutch girl, Ruth Larson.

English boy, Ray Clarkson.

The play consisted of recitations or songs by Father Christmas and all the other participants, the children from the various countries bringing gifts. Following the play refreshments were served, and two hours were given up to general social pleasures, including dancing, for which the Hodgson orchestra furnished music. As the members of the school left the hall each was given a box of candy. The committee in charge of the general entertainment consisted of Mrs. H. A. Peckham, Mrs. B. B. H. Sherman, Mrs. W. H. Chapin and Mrs. W. B. Fletcher.

The same play was presented at the Emmanuel Church Sunday School entertainment, which was held in the Algonkin Club's rooms on Hunt court. The cast of characters was as follows:

Father Christmas, Arthur B. Commerford.

Pages, Dorothea Howard and Robert Carr.

American children, Eddie Smith and Dorothy Sanborn.

Gifts—Anna Marvel, Robert Lawton, George Cisseen, Arthur Potter, Doris King.

German girl, Laura Radford.

French girl, Beatrice Dorey.

Japanese boy, Fred Medlee.

Scotch girl, Agnes Fraser.

Chinese boy, Carl Tollefson.

Italian girl, Louise Cook.

Spanish girl, Anna Wood.

English boy, Kenneth Kaull.

Dutch girl, Elizabeth Wilson.

Indian boy, Frank Hicken.

After the play refreshments were served, followed by dancing. The committee in charge of the entertainment consisted of Miss Martha Burdick, Mrs. Henry H. Tilley, Deaconess Butts, Miss Hannah J. Brierley and Rev. Edward Lake Reed. Mrs. William Power had charge of the music.

At the First Presbyterian Church the entertainment, arranged by Miss Anna Alger and Mrs. Richard Franklin, consisted of a number of moving pictures and a sketch, "Santa Claus's Conspiracy." The pictures were shown by a kinetoscope from Barney's, operated by Mr. Andrews, with Alister I. MacIver at the piano. The sketch told the story of an attempt of Mother Goose characters to get the Christmas presents which Santa Claus was leaving for real boys and girls, and was given in a stage setting showing a room with a large chimney, from which Santa Claus, impersonated by Mr. Alexander J. MacIver, emerged and filled the stockings hung on the chimney by four children, Isaac Matson, Josephine Sproul, Dorothy Barr and Winfield Scott. The Mother Goose characters were impersonated as follows:

Mother Goose, May Sweeney.

Little Bo- Peep, Beth Leys.

Jack and Jill, Philip Smith and Bella Leys.

Little Jack Horner, Alfred Dunbar.

Simple Simon, Charles Walker.

Little Miss Muffet, May Franklin.

After the play candy and presents were distributed, and a social hour followed.

TWELVE-HOUR RAIN OVER.

Precipation for December in Newport Nearly Double the Average for That Month.

The rainstorm finally petered out about 7 o'clock last evening, having lasted practically 12 hours, during which time, according to the Water Works gauge, 1.35 inches of rain fell. The ponds are filling up, the measurements this morning being, at the north pond (Green End), 37 inches below high water, and at the south pond, 65 inches down. The brook is still running fast and will continue to do so, and the ponds will fill rapidly. Of course it will take some time to make up that 85 inches in the south pond, but it will be made up. The north pond looks practically full now, being only three feet down.

Some rain has fallen this month. According to the gauge at the Water Works, the total of rain and melted snow for the month is 6.43 inches, and there is a feeling that all the snow was not caught and that this might have been a trifle more had the full complement of snowflakes been measured, but the ponds receive it all, whether or no the rain gauge did, and the result of the rainfall will continue to be felt in the ponds for a long time. Six and a half inches in one month is some rain, and shows that nature is trying to make up for deficiencies. The rainfall for last December was 3.68 inches; for 1910, 2.40; and the average for December is 3.81, so that the precipitation the present month is close on to double the average. It was certainly needed.

PELEG BRYER'S RETIREMENT.

Closes His Long Business Career as a Result of Sunday's Fire.

For Nearly Sixty Years He Occupied the Old Stone Building on Broadway.

With the destruction of the old stone building on Broadway and Spring street belonging to Mr. Peleg Bryer, there not only passes a structure which has been a landmark but the occupant has finally sold out, as a sign in his window has announced was being done for the past year or two. It has been at the last an enforced sale to the insurance companies, which the venerable proprietor would rather not have had. No other man in the city could have boasted last Saturday of having been in business in one place for so many years—since 1854.

The old stone structure was built about 1835 by Sanford Bell for a soap and candle factory, and was considered quite a business venture in those days, it failed to make good, and when an assignment came it was a nine-day wonder, because the proprietor was supposed to be the strongest financial man in the city and one who would make his big undertaking a success. The building was sold to John J. Allen for $930, and later to Mr. Bryer, who has recently spent double the amount named to make alterations to bring the building up to the times for modern uses.

Mr. Bryer showed a disposition to be ahead of the times when he made it his business stand, for he introduced show windows which were extraordinary for large glass in those days. His store in recent years was an addition of light construction, built beside the old stone structure, and there his stock has been but a remnant of the big line he once carried, which made his place known throughout the city and adjacent towns. Some years ago Mr. Bryer became practically blind, but submitting to an operation his sight has been partially restored, though not sufficiently for him to continue in business in his advancing years as he once did.

TO FORM BUSINESS ASSOCIATION

Temporary Meeting Held, But No Definite Action Owing to Small Number Present.

Nine of Newport's business men assembled at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association Monday evening in response to a call which had been sent to the 36 signers of a paper for the formation of a business men's association. Howard G. Ward was chairman and Halsey J. Kelley, who has recently come to Newport, and who has been working up interest in such an organization, acted as secretary.

The chair proposed that the meeting should organize a permanent body at once and elect a salaried secretary to take charge. There was no question but an active organization is needed by Newport, but those present questioned the advisability of organizing with so few present, and there was talk about the advisibility of reviving the old Board of Trade and securing the benefits of an existing charter. Mr. Kelley desired to have committees appointed to consider the rates of advertising in the newspapers, and to look into the matter of street car facilities, but these were ruled as not pertinent at the time. The meeting finally adjourned, all present resolving themselves into a recruiting committee.

Among those present were John R. Austin of the Newport Paper Company, Mr. Clarkson of the Lappin store, D. E. Sullivan of the Old City Hall Novelty Store, Manager Lowy of the Bijou Theatre, Messrs Howard G. Ward, Ernst Voigt, L. K. Carr and Halsey J. Kelley.

FOR PAY DIRECTOR SIMPSON.

Body Will Have Full Military Escort to the Arlington National Cemetery.

The funeral of Pay Director George Washington Simpson, U. S. N., (retired), who died Sunday afternoon, will be held from his home in Washington Thursday afternoon. The body will have a full military escort to the Arlington national cemetery and the bearers will be selected from officers of the navy pay corps. Chaplain George Livingstone, U. S. N., will officiate.

In the Spanish-American war Paymaster Simpson was assigned to duty on the Terror, in the fleet operating off Cuba. He was made prize master of captured Spanish schooner Tres Hermanas, and successfully sailed that prize from a point east of Havana to Key West, without a chart.

BODY OF ROSSO FOUND.

Remains of Missing Man Discovered in Ruins of Spring Street House.

Cement Walls of Smith Building Pulled Down—Insurance Men Hard at Work.

The body of William Rosso, who had been missing since Saturday night, was found just before 9:30 this forenoon by a gang of highway department men, working under the direction of Foreman Burdick. They began this morning shoveling over the deep bed of charcoal in the cellar of the Kane house on Spring street, which was first to catch fire from the Weaver building Sunday morning, and after some little turning over found the badly burned trunk about in the centre of the cellar. The medical examiner and an undertaker were at once notified and the body was taken away as soon as possible. There was quite a crowd watching the search, and when the body was found the number increased to several hundred.

Particles of bed clothing were found about the mangled remains, while the iron bedstead and bits of blankets, together with the attitude of the body all suggested to the searching party that the young man never woke up. The fiery blast sapped his life while in bed, and then the sudden burning of the front of the house caused the floors to collapse and precipitate the bed and body into the cellar, where it was buried under the general wreckage and partially protected.

The suspicion that there might still be another body in the ruins put a problem before the city officials Monday, for they could find no fund on which to draw for the prosecution of the search. The firemen while picking up after a fire often perform this work, but of course they had long since been dismissed and were only coming to the scene as an emergency of fire fighting called. The police were supposed to have such matters in their hands, but while they would do anything that could be done by the uniformed force the department has no fund for the employment of laborers. The highway department was appealed to and Commissioner Sullivan agreed to send some of his men for the work if the police would oversee it. Inspector Tobin, who had been trying to gain a clew as to the whereabouts of Rosso, therefore looked after the work as done by the highway force under Foreman Burdick.

William Rosso was 22 years of age and had resided in Newport for the past four years, during which time he had worked as a barber for Michael Dynan, "Benny" Gerberville, Henry F. Tubley and R. Piccolo. He was well known to the younger members of the Italian colony and liked by those who knew him. That he was attentive to his business is testified by his last employer, Mr. Piccolo, who was certain when he did not appear at the shop Monday morning promptly on time that there was something wrong.

The deceased was married secretly, some months ago in Fall River, to Miss Mary T. O'Neill, daughter of Mr. William O'Neill of that city. Preparations had been made to go to housekeeping early in the coming month, the furniture had been selected and a bill for it had been received by the deceased, who was waiting to secure the tenement before having the furniture shipped here.

He was a member of the Sons of Columbus and that organization will take charge of the funeral. He had no relatives in this city and the only relative of whom his friends know is an uncle, Luiggi Guzzardi of Providence, who is a barber at Brown University. He was notified as soon as the body was discovered and arrived in this city this afternoon. He is also a young man, younger perhaps than his nephew.

Mr. Piccolo's barber shop, where the deceased worked, is closed today, with a sign on the door: "Closed on account of death."

There was a rumor, quite general this afternoon, that the searchers at the ruins were searching for the body of Mr. Edward F. Hughes, who it was stated was missing. A visit to Mr. Hughes's place of business on Long wharf showed that it was unnecessary to look elsewhere for him. He was attending to business. He said he made his escape from the old Bull house, where he lived, on about five minutes' notice, and is not care for another such experience. He thought that if the police had gone into the houses they might have been of more aid than by merely shouting as they did, for some might have been deaf and failed to hear them.

Monday afternoon the cement-coated walls of the Smith building on Bull street were torn down by members of the fire department under the direction of Chief Kirwin. Ladders, chains and ropes were brought from Truck 1 and a hold was secured on the walls, but the chain pulled through like a can opener cutting tin. A fifth hold was obtained and the bulging wall pulled down. The wire netting on which the cement was placed over the wooden construction held the walls together much like a wet pasteboard box, and possibly they would have remained for some time; still, there was a feeling of insecurity and it was best to pull them down. The walls of the first story are of concrete blocks and of a more stable character, and have not been troubled.

The insurance agents worked all day Sunday, going over their books and preparing statements to their companies. Small losses are being settled today, and appraisers are hard at work. By Wednesday adjusters are expected and probably the losses on the Chase and Shepley stocks will be settled, these being the only two stocks which suffered much and were not totally burned. With them the water losses are almost total.

Monday a long stretch of show windows on Broadway were boarded up, being cracked or broken, and today the insurance agents are directing the ordering of new glass and providing for the re-painting of the various buildings, where the old paint stands in huge blisters. There is a big task in settling small losses on roof fires and

SENATOR WETMORE'S VIEWS.

Believes Market Square the Least Objectionable Police Station Site.

Thinks It Might Go Farther West or on Either the North or South Side.

To the Editor of The Daily News, Newport, R. I.

Dear Sir: I was greatly pleased some weeks ago to notice, at a meeting of the Representative Council, the general favor with which Mr. George Gordon King's suggestion was received that the new police station should still remain on Market Square, not only because of its central location, but also that, having been located there for many years, there could be no objection to its continuance on the square. Mr. King also suggested a larger site on the south side of the square, and the present site cleared to the harbor.

I think all agree, and have agreed, there should be a new, adequate and sanitary police station, but the stumbling block heretofore has been its relocation somewhere else, no one wishing to have it as a neighbor.

I have always thought Market square the most central and least objectionable location, all things considered, for the police station, but I believe the new building can be advantageously placed partly on its present site by putting a new building more to the west and acquiring the land owned by the Jamestown Ferry Company adjoining it on the west, or by acquiring a site either on the south or north side of the square.

The advantages and disadvantages of these three locations on the square, as between themselves, may be thus stated:

1—Present Location: If a new building farther to the west and the adjoining ferry company property acquired, the site would then be adequate and would cost the city less than an adequate site either on the south or the north side of the square. It would also have the advantage of light and ventilation over the north or south side of the square, on account of the streets or open spaces being on all four sides of the building.

2—North and South Sides of Market Square: There would probably be no difference in cost of site between the north and south sides of Market square; if any, the cost would be greater on the south side.

A disadvantage of the south side of the square would be that, going to and from the ferry, people would have to pass immediately in front of the police station, but on the north side of the square this would be avoided.

Another advantage of the south or north side of the square would be that by clearing away the police station from the centre of the square, an open space to the harbor would be made, thereby giving a more dignified approach to and from the ferry to Newport. But to accomplish this properly the Jamestown Ferry Company should be required to donate to the city the land immediately behind the present police station building.

An equally sanitary building can be built on either of these three sites, but in the event of the central site being retained, no attempt to re-model the present building should be allowed. The new building ought to be large enough, not only for present requirements, but with a sufficient allowance for the future. Even with an enlarged site a higher building than the present one would probably be of advantage, for it could be better arranged for the separation of women and children from the men.

I trust the Representative Council will see its way to provide without delay for a new police station building, somewhere on or about Market square.

George Peabody Wetmore.

FAVORS THE PRESENT BUILDING INSPECTOR.

To the Editor of The News:

It is to be hoped that the present building inspector will be retained. The increase in the number of buildings during the last year proves the necessity of such inspection and no one has yet any criticism of the present incumbent. He is courteous, always to be found, and in his examinations of buildings the present and future safety of the city is his first consideration. Even where attempts have been made to evade the law his attitude was commended by those who considered the law drastic. Where an office holder fulfills his duties in such a manner he should be left undisturbed to continue the good work.
